

Abstract

The present invention is a method and apparatus for radio frequency identification, comprising a supporter and a data card which can be connected with the supporter, wherein a user can easily carry and use an RFID data card, and, when co-operated with a supporter, the RFID data card can have wider application.